ANNUAL CONVENTION MUSIC TEACHERS

DISTRICT CONTESTS HOLDING ATTENTION THURSDAY AFTERNOON

FIRST MEETING EXECUTIVE BOARD IS CALLED BY MISS ROXY GROVE

By CHARLTON GUNTER
Preliminary sessions of the twenty-second annual convention of the Texas Music Teachers' Association were held in Corsicana Thursday afternoon with the first regular business meeting scheduled for Friday morning at 9:30 in the ball room of the Navarro Hotel.

Under the direction of Robert Hopkins, of Baylor University of Waco, winners of district contests began their competition for the state honors and cash prizes in three auditoriums at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

At 6:30 Thursday evening, Miss Roxy Grove, president of the association, called the first meeting of the executive board; and at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the First Baptist church, winners of the contests will be presented in a special program, to be followed by an organ recital by Mrs. J. W. Aikin, Jr., of Wichita Falls. A reception for the contest winners at the church is scheduled to close the activities for the day.

Registration of teachers and visitors is scheduled to start Friday morning at 8:30 on the mezzanine floor of the Navarro Hotel, with Miss Grove calling the first general meeting of the association for order at 9:30 and the regular program will be carried out for the remainder of the convention.

Contests Thursday afternoon were outgrowths of the competition inaugurated several years ago for the Dealey prizes, and are conducted in four sections—those for men and women's voices, piano and violin. Cash prizes of $25 and $15 are awarded first place winners in each section. Approximately 25 contestants were anticipated Thursday afternoon, all of them under the 25-year age limit. Each of the contestants were winners of district honors.

Voice contests were to be conducted at the First Baptist church with John C. Wilcox of Chicago, See MUSIC TEACHERS, Page 11

"This represents the improvement in October advertising volume after the usual adjustments including correction for seasonal change," it was stated.

SEVERAL THOUSAND SCHOOL TEACHERS IN STATE CONVENTION

BUILDING DEMOCRATIC SOCIETY THROUGH EDUCATION THEME SAN ANTONIO MEET

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 28.—(P)—Several thousand school teachers were here today for the opening of the 57th annual Texas state teachers association convention, the theme of which was "building a democratic society through education."

The first event on the program was a Thanksgiving service with business sessions to follow. C. N. Shaver of Huntsville, president of the association, said a protest against appearance of Ramon Beteta, chief of the statistical bureau of the Mexican government, on the convention program had been overruled. Shaver added that Beteta would speak twice on the three-day program.

The social justice study club, Catholic laymen's discussion group, recently protested Beteta's appearance on the grounds that Catholic members had taken exception to remarks attributed to Beteta.

"The invitation for Mr. Beteta to appear here was made in good faith and as a gesture of international good will and it still stands," said Shaver. "Mr. Beteta assured me that he had no intention of discussing religion. When I invited him I had nothing of that nature in mind."

CHINESE FORCES WITHDRAW FROM AREA IN DISPUTE IN NORTH CHINA

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

TIENTSIN, Nov. 28.—(P)—This city was taking on the aspects of an armed Japanese camp today as troops of the rising sun empire moved in while Chinese forces were withdrawn from the Tientsin-Pieping area.

Gen. Shan Chen, former governor of Hopeh province, was withdrawing his troops rapidly.

The Japanese were rushing a huge airbase to completion, preparing for the establishment of squadrons of airplanes.

Simultaneously Japanese soldiers were busily stringing military lines through the streets of the city.

These lines were connecting with Tangu where two Japanese destroyers have arrived.

A correspondent for the Japanese news agency, Renzo, reported from Nanking that it was authoritative stated the Chinese

Kaufman County Man Announces For Governorship

DALLAS, Nov. 28.—(P)—A. U. Puckett of Kaufman county, former Dallas attorney, today announced his candidacy for governor with a blast against the present state administration.

He charged it was disloyal to the policies of President Roosevelt and accused Governor James V. Allred of being "a hireling of the big oil companies and big business."

He said he favored independent oil companies and every move made by the present national administration. Puckett said he intended to "try to keep the burden of taxation off the farmers and put it elsewhere."

Puckett, 59, is an attorney and has large farming interests.

Emperor Leaves For North Front To Lead Troops

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 28.—(P)—Emperor Haile Selassie left his capital by automobile with a great military escort today, heading for the front to take personal command of his armies against the Italian invaders.

It was the second visit by the King of Kings to his defending forces since the fascist invasion began.

He returned only recently from an aerial tour of inspection to the southern front. His second sally, directed him to the 170 miles to the northeast, the Ethiopian field headquarters between the northern and southern fronts.

ENTIRE NATION IS GIVING THANKS FOR BLESSINGS OF YEAR

TYPICALLY AMERICAN HOLIDAY BEING OBSERVED IN EVERY COMMUNITY

By The Associated Press.

Almost 314 years ago—the first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in December—55 Pilgrim forefathers and 90 friendly Indians bowed their heads in fervent prayer for the blessings they had received in Lytle Plymouth, Mass., colony.

Today, more than 120,000,000 persons in every city and hamlet of the 48 states which grew from the first colony, offered their prayers of thanksgiving.

This typically American holiday usually associated with turkey feasts, church services, traditional football wars and family reunions did not fail to include the spreading of cheer to the less fortunate and to those unable to be at their own firesides.

Hospitals, orphanages and jails, the Army and Navy, the jobless and the homeless were included in the plans for Thanksgiving day deliberation.

President Roosevelt and his immediate family gathered for his annual custom for several years at his Warm Springs Ga. cottage on Pine Mountain. The President has invited his guests child infantile paralysis patients of the Warm Springs foundation. They will draw lots to decide which will sit at the chief executive's table.

Seventy Million Japanese Happy Over New Heir

TOKYO, Nov. 28.—(P)—Some 70,000,000 Japanese celebrated a Thanksgiving today, not for American reasons, but for the birth of a second son to Empress Nagako.

While American communities in Japan observed their own holiday, the Japanese bowed and genuflected to their majesties and paid homage to the new-born.

SCHOOLS CLOSED AND BUSINESS SUSPENDED AS CITIZENS TAKE HOLIDAY

Corsicana celebrated the annual Thanksgiving holiday in varied fashion Thursday, beginning with religious services in many of the churches on Wednesday night and continuing with others Thursday morning. Business activities were at a standstill with mercantile establishments, banks and the postoffice closed along with a majority of the offices of the city and county government.

A number of football fans journeyed to College Station for the annual battle between the Texas Longhorns and the Texas Aggies, but other fans stayed with their radios Thursday, and rested up for the T. C. U.-S. M. U. game on Saturday.

Hunting expeditions occupied many others. Golfers were handicapped by water-soaked fairways and greens.

Public school children were enjoying a brief holiday, and a number of teachers attended the annual Texas State Teachers' Association in San Antonio.

Divorces Clouded.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—(P)—A cloud on legality of Reno divorces was cast today by the ruling of a California judge that Mrs. Alice Cruikshank Whitestone was "guilty of bigamy" when she remarried after a Reno divorce because her Nevada residence was not bona fide.

Superior Judge Frank G. Swain awarded custody of the comely Santa Anita woman's three children yesterday to her former husband, John A. Cruikshank, who obtained a divorce here.

"Bigamy is bigamy," he said, "even though preceded by a pretended divorce."

Two Corsicana music teachers, Mrs. M. S. Dockum and Miss Marie Waltman, arranged the program for the twenty-second annual meeting of the Texas Music Teachers' Association which will formally open in Corsicana Friday morning. Both of them have been active in association circles for several years.

Decision Upholds And Invalidates Guffey Coal Law

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—A midnight decision in the District of Columbia supreme court sustaining parts of the Guffey coal control act and invalidating others left the way clear today for a final constitutional test of this New Deal measure.

Unexpectedly delivering an oral opinion last night, Justice Jesse C. Adams held constitutional the price-fixing and taxing provisions of the law designed to apply the broadest peace-time regulation to bituminous coal. He declared invalid sections providing for devaluation of wages and hours through collective bargaining.

Attorneys for James Walter Carter, president of the Carter Coal company, who filed the suit attacking the act's constitutionality, served notice they would appeal. Informed sources said the case probably would go direct to the supreme court.

BUDGET BALANCING IDEAS OF BUCHANAN MAY BRING SOME HOT DEBATES OVER RELIEF SPENDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—An announced drive by a powerful house of representatives democrat to force the federal budget into balance by 1937 raised prospects today of a warm debate over relief and other expenditures.

Rep. Buchanan (D-Tex), chairman of the house appropriations committee, declared his objective was to come within $500,000,000 of balancing the budget in the fiscal year starting July 1, 1936, and to cut out of the budget the next year. (The estimated deficit for the present fiscal year is $3,281,000,000.)

Back from a conference with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Buchanan indicated that he and Mr. Roosevelt had not yet found agreement on all budget figures for next year.

"But I am very hopeful," he said, "that the President and I will come together, though I doubt that I'll get all I want because I am pretty extreme on budget balancing."

Though President Roosevelt's views on future relief expenditures have not been made public, it is

The charge was filed by Highway Patrolman Wyatt in the court of Justice O. W. Woods. Maedgen was held in the Bell county jail under $1,000 bond, which he was trying to make.

The dead were Mrs. Olive Connell, 40, teacher in Fort Worth for 15 years; Miss Elizabeth Maddox, and Miss Agnes Ware. J. L. Maedgen was charged with the death of Mrs. Ware.

The women were en route to San Antonio for the Texas State Teachers' Association convention. They were dashed through the closed windows of their automobile when it hit another machine and tumbled into a concrete culvert.

BRAZIL REBELLION COMPLETELY CRUSHED BY LOYALIST TROOPS

POLITICAL SOURCES SAY UP-RISING FIRST CONFLICT SOCIALISTS-FASCISTS

By RAFAEL ORDORCIA Associated Press Foreign Staff.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 28.—(P)—The death list in Brazil's abortive revolution reached 138 today when the ministry of war announced that 38 rebellious soldiers had been killed in yesterday's fighting in this city.

President Getulio Vargas, in a circular telegram to the governors of all states, estimated the combined total of deaths in the fighting in the states of Rio Grande do Norte and Pernambuco totaled 100.

The ministry said 18 soldiers had been killed in the hot fighting around the barracks on the Praia Vermelha (Red Beach) and that 20 had been killed in the aerial bombardment or the aviation school.

Some political sources said today the uprising in northeast Brazil and in the capital itself, which the government crushed with loyal troops, was but the first sharp conflict between socialist and fascist trends.

DEATH OF COMER IS BLOW TO SOLUTION DISAPPEARANCE NINE

CHESTER COMER, BELIEVED HOLD KEY TO DEATH SEVERAL, DIED OF WOUNDS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 28.—(P)—The death of Chester Comer, the man they regarded as the key in many enigmas, sent off-icers back tracking over cold trails today in a highly organized inquiry into the whereabouts of nine missing persons.

A bullet in his brain, his condition aggravated by pneumonia, the 25-year old hitch hiker and car thief whose pistol blazed against the law when he was cornered and shot, died last night.

Officers had tried unavailingly since Monday to drag from him the information they believed he held—information they felt would have guided them to the spots where he left those missing persons with whom he had been connected.

But mumbled statements from the delirious man, halting phrases that told of hidden bodies, an incoherent partial confession and imprecations against a man the police felt he may have done away with—these things were all the investigators had to go on.

These questions were left unanswered by Comer's death: What became of Ray Evans, a prominent attorney and civic

FORMER IOWA SENATOR OFFERS REPUBLICAN PARTY FARM PLAN TO COMBAT AAA REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—Former Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, following up his demand for a "progressive" republican presidential candidate, offered the party today a farm plan with which to combat the administration's AAA.

Warning that the republicans could not win on "mere criticism of the AAA," Brookhart suggested they offer farmers an income based upon cost of production for the domestic portion of their crops, with the government handling the exportable surplus.

The former republican independent senator said the AAA has aided farmers. The republicans, in order to win, must offer them something better, he argued. Though farm income has been raised by the new deal program, he said, it was still far short of fair proportion of the national income.

In a statement, Brookhart said his plan would place agriculture on a parity with other industries which fix their prices on cost of production.

"The farmer is the only one who has nothing to say about what he gets when he sells," he said. "That system that has stricken down agriculture, destroyed its buying power, and finally put us into the deepest depression in history."

He would have the government fix cost of production for each crop, including allowance for labor and management depreciation and a four per cent return on capital.

Each crop year the secretary of agriculture would estimate the exportable surplus. Farmers would get cost of production prices for their share of domestic crops—by government price fixing—and turn the balance over to the government.

The government would sell the surplus at the best terms available in the world market and give the farmers their share, less cost of administration.

Contending this was the only farm plan ever offered involving no expense to the government, Brookhart said the farmers of the northwest could afford to give the entire exportable surplus to the government, though the cotton farmers could not.

But if the cotton farmers, he added, "get the cost of production on the domestic half of their crop and the world price on the other half they would be more prosperous than ever before except under the war inflated prices."

OFFICERS HOLDING DAMAGED CAR FOUND NORTH OF CORSICANA

Deputy Sheriff Jack Floyd Thursday morning brought a V-8 automobile to the county jail from a point three miles north of Corsicana.

Investigations indicated that the had been used to transport whiskey and apparently the car had turned over at some other point with considerable damage done to the top and body of the automobile. It appeared, according to the officer, that the whiskey cargo had been transferred from the damaged automobile to another at the point where it was left.

The automobile bore a Dallas county license plate.

No arrests were made in the case.

Convict Sends Checks to Folk He Once Robbed

CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.—(P)—Five Cleveland families received Thanksgiving greetings in the form of checks today from Joseph Russell, who is serving a term of 55 years in Ohio penitentiary.

The checks, totalling $90.60, were sent to persons who were victims of Russell's depredations eight years ago when he was known to police as "Specs," the "goggles bandid" and a very troublesome person.

Philip Segel, a butcher, received a check for $20, the amount he turned over to Russell in 1927. Alex Fram, who once operated a small confectionery store, received $20. A. C. Stevenson received $10.60, the amount he lost in the robbery of a drug store in 1927. Two other $20 checks were distributed, one to Mrs. Margaret Stasz, another to H. W. Chapman.

Russell went to prison in 1927 when he was 19. He had played the trombone and he soon became a soloist in the prison orchestra.

He started writing, first being successful in selling articles to a nationally known music magazine. He began to earn money in this way and decided to repay his victims. He is having more trouble repaying them, however, than he had in robbing them.

Police and officials of the Cleveland Association of Criminal Justice said there were about 50 victims. Russell finally obtained a list of them.

City officers were informed Wednesday by Dallas detectives that a white youth was being held in the Dallas jail after he had been arrested with a kodak in his possession which he had offered for sale. They were planning to return the boy to Corsicana Thursday.

WHOLESALE MURDERS MAY LIE AT DOOR OF WOUNDED OKLAHOMAN

GUNMAN-HITCHHIKER GASPS
PARTIAL ADMISSION OF
THREE MURDERS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26.—(AP)—Officers pinned their hopes for new clues to the slaying of nine persons today on a blood transfusion planned for Chester Comer, 25-year old confessed slayer of three.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 26.—(AP)—A crime investigation that increased its scope to include the disappearances of nine persons focused today upon the condition of a greatly wounded gunman hitchhiker, Chester Comer, 25.

He gasped a barely understandable admission of partial guilt before he fell into a coma which officers feared preceded death.

"I wouldn't be surprised at anything we may run into in this thing," said Col. Charles Daley, superintendent of the state crime bureau, as he organized a search of proportions unprecedented in Oklahoma for persons he feared may have been victims of Comer.

Daley said a motley collection of personal belongings of several hundred persons was found in the stolen car from which Comer, locked inside, shot it out yesterday with Oscar Morgan, Blanchard town marshal.

"These discoveries increase our fears for those missing," Daley said. "Comer had a brief case belonging to a man he told he killed. In addition there were a number of sweaters which might have been worn by the victims."

He had two pistols besides the one he used in the gunfight yesterday and a large quantity of ammunition.

Many Disappearances. Peace officers who clustered about Comer's hospital room hoped he might regain consciousness to throw light on these disappearances.

Ray Evans, attorney of Shawnee, who disappeared a day ago today, "shot him," Comer mumbled to Col. Daley, when questioned specifically about Evans.

L. A. Simpson, farmer of Piedmont, Okla., and wife, Verna, 14, "I did away with three. Allen, near Ada, dumped their bodies in a pile under a pipe line."

E. Smith Hester, McClain county attorney, said Comer had whispered to him Simpson and his son have been missing since Saturday. Comer was in their car when he was shot and captured.

Elizabeth Childers, Comer's first wife, whose stepmother Mrs. R. Childers, said she had not heard word from her daughter since

Emhouse PTA Met
Last Thursday In Interesting Session

The Emhouse P. T. A. met November 21 at the high school with the president, Mrs. C. J. DeLaRosa in the chair.

It was necessary to dispense with some important business before presenting the program, as outlined in the year book for this meeting. A contribution of $5.00 was made to the library in order to secure more needed magazines.

The picture committee presented a very beautiful picture to the P. T. A. which is to be offered the room having the most mothers present during the year.

A very interesting program followed the short business session. First was a talk by the Superintendent, Mr. E. C. Butler: "The Knowledge of Geography, as a Constructive Force Bringing Understanding and Respect for Others." People are influenced by geographic as well as social and economic conditions. The climate water supply, and other natural environments play a part in molding and shaping the lives of a country. If, in dealing with our neighbors, we would consider all this, there would be a better understanding and a greater spirit of friendship shown.

Mrs. E. C. Butler gave a geography demonstration—"The Place of Geography in Former Years as Contrasted with the Geography in the Modern School." Mrs. Butler, in her clear, concise way made a comparison of the old with the new methods, emphasizing points of improvement. Instead of the old method of standing before the class, asking questions, she gave expression to their thoughts by general discussion.

Questions prepared by Mrs. Butler were given different members, the answers conveying interesting and helpful information. She then on the principal places of interest in Washington, D. C. she taking part were Francis, Minnie Mabel Johnson, Spurlock, Posey Beth, and Beulah Miller and Richard.

Owen, chairman of committee, discussed subject: Geographic Antidote to Greed. It was talk much valued, as it was given in connection with the class, and made for a better understanding of the subject.

All Star Cast in Mutiny on the Bounty

Proclaimed the greatest of all sea dramas, "Mutiny on the Bounty" opens Saturday night at 11:30 at the Palace theatre after being more than a year in production.

Aside from entertainment, it presents an authentic visual document of one of the most notable chapters of maritime history—the mutiny on the H. M. S. Bounty one hundred and fifty years ago.

In the annals of the sea there is no more fascinating story than that told of the Bounty which set sail from England in 1787, bound for Tahiti.

In charge was Lieutenant Bligh, a harsh taskmaster. Storms lengthened the voyage, food ran low and as Bligh's temper increased he raged at his underfed and embittered crew. The golden days that followed the arrival at Tahiti temporarily quieted his men, but shortly after the start of the return voyage Bligh's tyranny brought rebellion to the breaking point and his men rose in mutiny.

August and feared for her safety. Second Wife Missing.

Mrs. Lucille Stevens Comer, second wife of the wounded man, Her father, Charles Stevens, said she was last heard from in McLean, Texas, Sept. 14, and "if she was alright she would let us know."

George M. Lorus, Albert A. Heberer and Cecil wives, Illinois courtiers last seen in Albuquerque, N. M., and for whom department of justice agents have been searching for months. Their car was found at Dallas and G-men there said they were investigating the possibility that Comer may be the man sought for questioning in their disappearance.

Dwight Brantley, head of the department of justice here, said today he had heard "nothing official" regarding the possibility of Comer's connection with this case.

Physicians said Comer had a bullet in his brain. The wounded man merely rolled his eyes and showed no recognition when his mother, Mrs. J. W. Comer, and other members of his family sought to question him.

Mrs. Comer said Chester is her second son "to go bad. Arnold Comer, now 18, is in solitary confinement in an Arkansas state asylum after killing a man, woman and baby, and after he was sent to the asylum, his colimate.

Bodies Two Men Found Shot Death In Texas Home

HAMILTON, Nov. 26.—(AP)—The shot-torn bodies of W. T. Blackwell, 30, and E. C. Gann, 60, were found today at the Gann home seven miles north of Hamilton. The bodies were in separate rooms.

The two men had been "batching" there while Mrs. Gann was away on a visit. A boy who came to clean the house, found the bodies.

Investigating officers were unable to decide definitely what led to the double slaying but they were inclined to believe a third person was involved. They did not think it was a case of slaying and suicide.

Gann was shot through the left side of the chest and Blackwell in the abdomen.

FARMERS' BENEFIT CHECKS TO CONTINUE DESPITE DECISION

SUPREME COURT GRANTS
TEMPORARY INJUNCTION
AGAINST PROCESS TAX

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(AP)—After losing an initial skirmish in the supreme court struggle over AAA, the New Deal quickly announced today that the flow of benefit checks to farmers will continue, regardless of the final outcome of the rice processing tax case.

Despite the government demands that processors "pay the tax first and litigate later," the supreme court granted a temporary injunction yesterday to eight Louisiana rice millers.

It prevents the treasury from collecting the taxes from these eight processors until the supreme court passes on AAA legislation through which congress sought to forbid injunctions against the levy. The millers argue that this legislation, passed at the last session, is unconstitutional.

Soon after this preliminary decision, M. G. White, solicitor of the agriculture department, declared:

"This action will have no effect on the availability of funds to meet contract payments since much funds are advanced by the treasury, out of the general funds of the treasury, to meet the current needs of AAA."

He added that even the "ultimate decision of the whole case would not affect the government's obligations with respect to existing adjustment contracts with the farmers."

Coming Visit of Santa To Corsicana Topic of General Conversation

Since the first announcement that Santa Claus and his live reindeer were going to visit Corsicana on Saturday, December 7, the subject has been the all-important topic of conversation among citizens of this community.

The Corsicana Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring this appearance of the good St. Nicholas here has been gratified at the wide spread and universal interest being expressed on all sides. Quite frequently, however, when the subject of Santa's coming is discussed, there comes up a point on which many are not well informed. That is: whether Santa Claus is just an American Santa Claus for good little American children or whether he is a Santa Claus for all the world.

We make our own Santa Claus. The spirit, the sentiment is always there and will always be there, but in some foreign countries Santa Claus takes a somewhat different form and the people's observance of his coming differs slightly from that of America. Santa Claus is infinitely wise and adopts himself to the community's idea of him and to that community's needs.

Origin Described. In previous stories in this newspaper, the origin of Santa Claus was described—how he was once a mortal living on earth in Asia Minor and how, because he wanted to do good always without becoming so old and wrinkled that he would not have a jolly appearance, he decided to take a kingdom in the Garden of Peace at the Top O' the World where things never change.

The name by which we know the generous old gentleman is a derivative of the Dutch San Nicholas, an identity of his own in the household mythology of Holland and the United States. Only comparatively recently has he been adopted in England. His saint's day is St. Nicholas' Eve, December 5, but his activities have been transferred in many countries to Christmas Eve, which is entirely given over to him and his army of assistants. His alternative name is Kris-Kringle, from the German Christ Kindel. The name "Santa Claus" is purely an American adaptation of the name St. Nicholas, using the first syllable of the first name and the last syllable of the last name.

In France St. Nicholas' Day is the great fete-day of the children and they petition him in the words, "St. Nicholas, my good patron, send me something very good!" It is rare, indeed, that St. Nicholas risks his popularity so far as to present his petitioners with nothing at all. On the ever of his day, expectant children hang up their stockings in the chimney, corner and then re-out more gifts. Then the kiddies say their prayers, and put baskets and dishes on the window-sills and go to bed. Dutch Santa Claus. Among the Dutch burghers of New York, St. Nicholas was jolly, fat, roistering character, who sometimes made an appearance with his good-natured vrouw, Molly Grigge. By the Italians of Bari, a seaport on the southern coast, the festival of St. Nicholas is observed with great splendor and much earnestness, for in a subterranean church there are treasured the remains of the saint, according to their legends. These legends claim that he was buried originally in his own cathedral at Myra, in Asia Minor, and that certain merchants of Bari stole them in the eleventh century, and carried them to their town, where they handed them over to the Archbishop. Ever since that date the tomb of St. Nicholas of Bari has been famous for pilgrimages on the 6th day of December. Tomorrow in The Corsicana Daily Sun we are going to begin describing some of the wonderful features that our own Santa Claus or St. Nicholas or Kris Kringle will bring with him on his visit to this city. Don't miss it. —Santa Claus Editor.

At the cottage Paul Gray and Max Scott aided President Scoggins in planting the tree, which is guaranteed to live or another given to replace it. PREVENTING COLDS

If the medical research people are as near the goal as they believe, the day is not far distant when we can prevent epidemics of colds and influenza by immunization.

In the meantime, there are many things which the intelligent layman has learned about eluding the common cold and which he now practices with good results. Getting the required amount of sleep, fresh air and exercise regularly is first on his list. After that comes good sense about his diet.

It isn't always possible to avoid crowds in the cold season. The person who has to mingle with sneezers, on a street car or at his place of business, does well to indulge in a thorough gargle when he gets home. Warm water and either the humble salt or soda available in kitchen are effective and inexpensive.

The one thing that everyone is sure about colds is that they are a serious matter, reducing efficiency, weakening general health, lowering energy, and generally causing misery. It is usually easier to prevent them than to check their course once they're started.

RUNNING RAILROADS

"I hold no particular brief for the railroads, but they are entitled to a square deal from the public," observed Jesse H. Jones, RFC chairman, addressing American bankers. "The bankers should be removed from their backs, or subjected to stricter regulations as to their rates and charges."

"I see no objection to a banker sitting on the board of a railroad, provided he has no interest, direct or indirect, in the road's financing, no friends to favor, no 'scratch my back and I'll scratch yours.' All of this is within the law, and railroad banking as carried on is perhaps legal, but public sentiment is against a continuation of it in the old way."

How the bankers liked this is not reported. Perhaps they took it, on the whole, with good grace. For it has been growing more obvious that the salvation of the railroads depends on their being run by trained and practical railroad men, with a free hand. It was largely financial control by interests which, no matter how well meaning, did not understand railroad operation, that put the roads where they are now. The result has been railroads drifting closer and closer toward government operation and federal ownership.

Lately there seems to be a revival of the old pioneer spirit among railroad executives. They are going ahead modernizing their equipment and services and doing intelligently for their patronage, in a way that yet save this industry for private

THANKSGIVING.
For all that makes this life worth while—
The laughter of our children small,
The blossoms by the garden wall,
The yield of orchard, field and plain—
We pause in gratitude to pray
And consecrate ourselves again
To Thee on this Thanksgiving Day.

For love that keeps the family whole;
For strength to cope with doubt and care;
For faith which fortifies the soul
Against the forces of despair;
For all that makes the heart rejoice;
For mirth and song and whole-some play;
Once more our gratitude we voice
To Thee on this Thanksgiving day.

For pity hate can never kill;
For tenderness of heart and mind,
Which still outlives and always will
Men's lusts and greeds of every kind;
For joys which constant will remain
When vanities are swept away,
We come, with gratitude, again
To Thee on this Thanksgiving day.

Dear Lord, for neighbors kind and true
Who understand us when we weep,
And all they are and all they do;
For all the memories we keep;
For love which can alone restore
Our strength, when faltering we stray,
With gratitude we turn once more
To Thee on this Thanksgiving day.

UNEMPLOYABLES

If there are 10,000,000 unemployed people in the United States, says Merle Thorpe, editor of Nation's Business, "according to his best guess" 8,000,000 of them are unemployable.

If this is a fair guess, it shows a situation which both government and business will have to take far more seriously than has yet been done by either. For it is self-evident that so vast a number—or half that many—cannot be left to starve or beg in the cynical old let-alone way. The great depression, extending the range of human sympathy and social responsibility, has brought us beyond that.

Who will take care of those unemployables, mostly human waste from our industrial system? Large numbers of them are not really useless. Many who have lost their skill might be retained. Light or simple work of various kind might be found for others. If this is not done, they will obviously be a permanent burden to society, to be supported either by private charity or public funds.

Private charity can not be adequate, as it used to be before the human wastage was so great. The burden falls first upon the local government, then upon the state. If they fail, we have the federal government permanently in the wholesale dole business.

Only through a vast extension of employment by private enterprise, not merely of able workers but of handicapped workers and bondholders, can such federal bounty be avoided.

to a third-party judgment. Then the nation that would not abide by this principle, and took the law into its own hands, by going to war, would be resisted by all the rest.

"If the great nations adopted this principle and stood by it," he declares, "force would then be truly for the purpose of insuring equally of right for all and resisting the war-maker."

But apparently the world isn't yet quite civilized enough for this procedure. A big majority of nations are trying right now to apply it to Italy, with very doubtful success. In most countries short-sighted private interests still resist or control public policy in such vital matters.

Sometimes a fellow is inclined to think, as he considers the astronomical figures of folks on relief, that the government is supporting the people better than the people are supporting the government.

ALL CARS ARE BARGAINS

In horsepower, weight and size of cars, the automobile buyer got a lot more for his money in 1935 than in 1925. The statistical staff of the Automobile Manufacturers' Association gives an analysis of car prices for those two years which shows:

In 1925 the man who bought an average automobile paid $31.50 per horsepower. In 1935 he paid $7.80.

The average price per pound of cars was 41 cents in 1925 and 23 cents this year.

Ten years ago the average cost for wheelbase length was $9.60 an inch. It is now $5.90.

This trend is continued in the 1936 cars.

Modern cars grow continually more efficient, last longer, operate more easily, afford more comfort to riders. It is not strange that car sales increase right along with recovery, contributing to it as well as benefiting by it.

FLEXIBLE LAW

There was nothing tame or dull about a recent session of the United States Supreme Court. During the day every one of the nine justices differed with his colleagues in the opinions handed down. There were 29 dissents in all. Not all of them were written. In some cases the justices were merely recorded as disagreeing with the majority opinion.

Five oppositions apiece were recorded for Justices Cordozo, Brandeis and Stone. There were three apiece for Justices Sutherland, Roberts and McReynolds. Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Butler dissented twice each. Justice Vandevanter, though absent from the bench, turned in one dissent.

The law is not a cut-and-dried matter, as it sometimes seems, if the nine men who are "tops" in legal interpretation are so frequently in disagreement. There is reassurance in this fact. If mistakes are made, they may be corrected.

So, too, with the Constitution. It may be misinterpreted and re-interpreted many times, but it remains a living document. Distress at any single supreme court ruling, and particularly at five-to-four decisions, may be lessened by realization that so far in our history there is nothing final and untreatable about them. They settle a point for a year or a generation, but not forever.

WILD LIFE

As J. N. Darling, federal chief of the biological survey, retires to private life, the Department of Agriculture announces:

"Mr. Darling has made real contributions to the nation's wild life program. He will continue to be active in efforts to bring together the multitudes of wild life groups of the United States into a national federation of wild life."

This effort, we venture to suggest, should not be confined to the life of field and forest. Couldn't Mr. Darling do something about the wild life groups in the cities?

OUR KIND OF OPERA

Giovanni Martinelli, famous tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, says he doesn't believe, with Lawrence Tibbett, that a grand opera is "dying on its feet."

He wouldn't, being an Italian, and Italy being the home of opera, a land whose language itself is music, and where people sing as naturally as they eat. To Italians, singing dramas are not so artificial as they are to Americans. Yet even in Italy, grand opera is perhaps the most artificial of the fine arts. In America it is certainly so.

Birds naturally sing to each other when they have something to say. Human beings don't. And certainly Americans don't. We like singing, but only in the form of definite songs. We don't care to hear anyone singing: "Good morning! I think it is going to rain. What have you had for breakfast?" We keep speech and music, conversation and song, prose and poetry, in separate compartments.

Our musical comedies are far more natural and suited to American taste than these foreign operas, because in them we have the drama mostly spoken, with the actors bursting in to song only on suitable occasions. Eventually we may develop serious opera in the same way, as good as foreign opera, and better suited to our own taste. Indeed, we already have a start at it.

A TRAVEL TALE OF REGIONS OF ROMANCE AND RELIGION*

One Who Has Himself Followed Route From Jerusalem to Babylon Writes of Ezra's Historic Journey—The Place of Authorship in Life.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

My memory has been set aflame by this bit of vivid writing from the old book of Ezra, the Hebrew scribe. For I, too, have more than once covered this same route, between Babylonia and Jerusalem. I know the perils of the way; for once, while on Ezra's desert route, the "lifers-in-wait" of whom he writes attacked my party, pinching us between two ambushing parties of fifty horsemen each. We escaped, almost miraculously, into the desert, only because of a Model-T car, with sacred Armenians at the wheel, could outdistance the fleetest Arab steeds. Our pursuer's shots fell harmlessly about us, although one car was pierced by bullets that bracketed the passenger.

Other adventures I have had in the Arabian desert; but never was I so near death there as on this occasion. Even though I was their target, I shall never be able to forget the brave picture of these Bedouin horsemen, rising in their stirrups, as they rode, with their long abayahs, cloaks, streaming behind them, and firing as they came, sometimes brandishing their rifles at us in impetuousness.

This changeless spirit of the desert makes even the best-guarded and best-planned trip overland to Baghdad a thing of peril. As the Arabs are today, so they were in the time of the Jews of the exile. The same torments that the successive caravans of the Hebrews underwent were endured by the helpless companies of Armenian deportees during the war.

Amidst Scenes Of History. There are certain great routes on the earth's surface that have been highways since the dawn of history. This road from the Mediterranean to the Persian Gulf is one of them. Conquering armies beyond count; Abraham seeking a better country; the Wise Men following a star; adventurers, merchants and writers have all followed it. To the imaginative traveler it echoes with the tread of historic millions.

All the famous journeys between Palestine and Babylonia, that of the Jews going and returning, is outstanding. After their nation and city, built on a faith to which they had proved disloyal, had been conquered, they traversed this desert road in chains and tears. When the first lesson of the sin of idolatry had been learned, successive expeditions of returning exiles essayed the bitter journey back to the homeland.

It was one of these led by Ezra, the scribe, in 458 B. C., that constitutes our present Lesson. A later expedition, under Nehemiah, followed. Indeed, ever since, from the extensive population of Jews in Mesopotamia and Persia, homesick Hebrews have faced the rigors of the road across the desert, that they might dwell in the land of their fathers.

Present-day Zionism has stimulated not a little of this ingathering from the lands of ancient exile. On a recent trip across the desert, homeward bound from Baghdad, I found a bus-load of twenty-one Persian Jews, men, women and children, stranded in the desert with a broken axle; and it is a source of continuing gratification to me that I was able to succor this latest band of returning exiles.

The Man Who Writes. Our hero today is Ezra, the scribe. He is the outstanding literary figure of the Old Testament, viewed from the professional standpoint. The written word was his business—and that he could write, the present Lesson text proves. Like many another author and student, he was also a leader in practical affairs. Like Julius Caesar, he could say, "Of which things also I was a part." It is all rubbish to classify writers as impractical theorists and dreamers. Have we today any saner or more effective leaders in the land than the newspaper men? Most of what the western world does is based upon what it reads in the newspaper. The scribe's place in life is a potent place.

Ezra was more than a transcriber. He was a student and interpreter of the sacred law. His office is an old one in all religion. All of his work and literary labors show in Ezra the elevating and quickening influence of his engrossment with the Law of Jehovah.

That great editor, Charles A. Dana, insisted upon an intimate acquaintance with the Scriptures as a prerequisite of the good journalist. Almost every day's editorial page of the New York Times either contains phrases from the Bible, or a style that shows the writers to be familiar with the Book. Any young person with an ambition to write needs to steep himself in the volume which, more than any other, has shaped the English tongue. It has been said that "No man is truly educated who does not know the Bible; and no man may be said to be uneducated who is familiar with its pages."

"Blood Will Tell" Back of this brilliant statesman-scribe lived a long line of noble ancestors. He proudly calls the roll of these notable names. All else being equal, the persons with good blood and fine traditions has an advantage in the race of life. "Noblesse oblige" has always been an incentive. As we read the list of Ezra's forebears, we realize that he himself was the finest fruit of their lives. It is great to have good ancestors; and it is great to be a descendant worthy of them; and therefore a creditable ancestor one's self.

This Ezra was the sort of man who does something about it; no futile commentator he. From King Artaxerxes he secured permission to lead a company back to Jerusalem. It is left to us to imagine how diplomatic was his request, and the preparation that led up to it. Ezra is content to attribute all to "the hand of Jehovah." From the king he secured a remarkable letter of provision and protection for his band of 6,000 men, women and children, all free-will emigrants.

True to his breeding and character, Ezra began the long journey with a three-day fast and a service of dedication, his conduct reminding one somewhat of the Mayflower Pilgrims. As God was his goal, so God was his guide and guard and guiding. With him, religion always came first, as the most vital factor in life. He could not go forward with his great enterprise until he had secured the presence of adequate Levites in his party, to conserve the worship.

The Climax Of The Trek. Each reader for himself must reconstruct the wonderful journey that then began. Six thousand persons are a multitude. The progress of the whole must be gauged to the speed of the weakest member. Four months were consumed, and the speed averaged about eight miles a day. What a noisy camp it must have been, as it was set up each night and broken each morning! Of the heat, and the heavy dust and sand of the first portion of the journey, nothing is said.

Order and purpose prevailed, and after all these difficult days, the returning exiles reached their goal, and held a huge service of thanksgiving and sacrifice in the rebuilt temple in Jerusalem. Ezra's faith had been fulfilled, his daring courage vindicated.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK WAS OBSERVED IN EMHOUSE SCHOOL

American Education Week, November 11-17, was observed throughout the Emhouse public school. Because of a noticeable need for courtesy and good manners among the pupils of the schools, the faculty inquired if there might be some way of bringing before the pupils a realization of this condition, and to establish in them a desire to study and better their conduct and character. In answer to this inquiry, a plan was organized and captioned "School-Friend Week." The parents and patrons interested in the school and the community took an interest in the project, and enthusiastically co-operated with the children and school in accomplishing as much as possible toward the event.

The object in celebrating the entire program was, of course, to bring the children into a direct and definite attitude of mind in regard to their personal conduct, habits and manners at home, at school, and among society in general. Following a week's explanation and launching, the following program was carried out with much success:

Tuesday, Nov. 12.—Courtesy Day.

Wednesday, Nov. 13.—Boost Our School Day.

Thursday, Nov. 14.—Gentlemen and Ladies Day.

Friday, Nov. 15.—Clean-up Day.

Essays were written and posters were made to help carry out the theme of the week. The following is the essay that won honorable mention:

We Learn to Do By Doing. We believe that it pays to do. We believe that it is why we try to keep a pretty entrance to the school. The beautiful lawn with its flowers and trees is only the preface to the school, and we try to keep the interior in accordance with its preface. The campus is so equipped that every student has a choice of which sport he wants to enter.

The interior is equipped with 14 class rooms, a study hall, an office, and an auditorium large enough to seat 500. The agriculture department is located outside the main building.

Music is given throughout the entire school. Heretofore it was only offered to the high school girls, but last year it was introduced to all the grades. Our commercial course was another addition to the curriculum. It consists of bookkeeping and typing, and is offered to the seniors and post-graduate. The vocational agriculture department was added to the curriculum in 1932 and the home economics department was added last year. Both courses have proved very successful.

In Emhouse, we maintain a God.

And earn the martyr's crown of light.

Yet who lives for God may be a greater conqueror in His sight.—Adelaide Procter.

The older I grow, the more certain I am that morality is dependent upon the spread of religion and civilization of this country.—President Taft.

school spirit. One sign of our school spirit is a feeling of brotherhood among the students. Another, is a whole-hearted participation in anything that is undertaken on the part of the student. But one that we believe is the best sign is the thorough co-operation of the student with the teacher. Our school can be no better than its students make it. That is why we need the co-operation of the students, parents and faculty. Neither one student nor one teacher can make our school what we want it to be, but each student can do his part toward making it what it ought to be. To further our advancement, our faculty has entrusted in our care, the problem of student government. This was done on the basis of plan of abolishing severe discipline. This government consists of a president and his council, and thus far it has proved a very successful method of government.

We know that our school has advanced during the last few years, but we are not satisfied with a mere advancement. We want continued advancement.

One of our future objectives is to gain the co-operation of the parents of this community. Not that they have failed, but we feel that they should take a greater interest in the education of their children. We also aim to make a fair showing in basketball this year. With the aid of the students, we plan to do many things in the future. We feel that our obstacles can be overcome, and our objectives fulfilled. It certainly seems that we have started on the road to success for this year. Written by:

REALISTIC RETURN TO AMERICAN IDEALS URGED BY HOOVER

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 27.—(AP)—A "realistic return to American ideals" to preserve true "American liberalism" was demanded today by former President Herbert Hoover in an address prepared for delivery at a junior chamber of commerce luncheon.

"American liberalism is not regimentation," Mr. Hoover declared. "It is not despotism. It is never coercion by bureaucracy."

"Liberty has gone down the slide road of socialism and fascism in a score of nations," he said.

"The infection of these ideas into America have brought our nation to a dividing of the ways, fateful to free men."

"And here is the clash of true American liberalism and its ideals with these imported social philosophies of government."

"It appears that to be a 'liberal' today you must advocate currency or credit inflation although its ultimate destiny is destruction. You must have faith in the efficacy of gigantic spending, of deficits and of debts, and of waste of public money. You must advocate that the government edge into a system of government-dictated monopolies. You must ardently believe that the government go into business. You must believe in vast political bureaucracies."

Characterizing "American liberalism" as "a great faith and a great philosophy" that grew out of the American revolution, Mr. Hoover declared it is not the possession of any political party.

"From its spirit comes the solution of our ceaseless problems," he said. "It has been resolute that no improvement to the lives of men is possible which undermines or destroys our liberties."

"Surely Americanization requires the exposure of the wolf of collectivism now parading in sheep's clothing of pretended liberalism," he continued.

"If in fear and distress we have been tempted for a time to wander from the true path, we must return to it before it is too late."

"In a world struggling against the forces of disruption we have a high duty to keep America American."

"Hitherto we have mostly regarded Americanization as a special treatment we give to foreign born before they file their naturalization papers."

"The job today has become far bigger than that. There are hosts of natives who need treatment."

UNION OF RADICALS SOUGHT IN SUPPORT FARM-LABOR PARTY

SOCIALIST AND COMMUNISTS MAY JOIN HANDS FOR NEW ORGANIZATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(P)—American Socialists and Communists studied today overtures by their leader for a combine of forces to create and support a national Farmer-Labor party.

Despite the traditional enmity of the two political organizations, a union was freely discussed last night by Norman Thomas, Socialist leader, and Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party.

More than 20,000 persons who filled Madison Square Garden heard the men debate the question: "Which Road for American Workers—Socialist or Communist?"

Standing on a platform decorated with red bunting, Browder, who was American delegate to the last Communist International convention in Russia, asserted: "We have in mind a broad Farmer-Labor party based on the immediate needs and demands of the toilers and embracing all those who are ready to break with the capitalist parties."

Thomas expressed a belief in "the maximum possible amount of joint action by all who love civil liberty," and added: "I believe in the formation of a Farmer-Labor party as soon as it can be done on proper lines."

He explained, however, "I do not think the time has come for a formal united front, but I think after tonight, we can go about settling our differences."

Browder pointed out that both Socialists and Communists want to abolish capitalism.

"We both want to establish Socialism," he said.

The American Farmer-Labor party, he said, would be "much broader than the Communist or Socialist parties, but would necessarily include both of them."

FATAL FIRE

Fire Marshal Ligon said the blaze originated in the room of Mrs. Cary Cashion and Mrs. Belle Stephens. A faulty hose connection on the gas stove was blamed.

Mrs. Cashion, trembling from shock, said she had gas escaping during the night in her room.

"Belle always tended the stove," she said. "I got up and went into the kitchen and Belle got up to light the fire in the bedroom. Then I heard an explosion and saw a flash. I managed to get out the back door, somehow."

Mrs. Stephens was blown into the hall by the explosion, where C. S. Slater, a roomer, extinguished her blazing clothing and carried her to safety.

Mrs. Bowden jumped from a second floor window, made her way to a backyard fence and clutched a piling. She was found, her spine badly injured, grasping the piling with a vise-like grip. It was necessary to tear down the fence and remove the woman and fence to the street.

Mrs. Minnie Robinson jumped from a balcony to the sidewalk, fracturing her skull. Mrs. Bessie Boyd and her two sons, W. L. 15, and Billie, 10, were blown from a second story window.

"I opened the door and saw the flames," said Mrs. Boyd. "I yelled to the boys to get out quick. Billie jerked his wet pants off the line and put them on. I got my coat and W. L. grabbed his pants and jacket. Then I took them in my arms and jumped out a window. We could see the fire whipping in here today."

There were about 30 rooms in the house, with a long corridor running down the middle of both floors. A back door is located on the lower floor but only a window in the upstairs corridor.

The injured were burned and hurt in leaping from second floor windows and porches.

A sudden blast was heard shortly after dawn and the building was soon enveloped in flames. Occupants screamed for help and neighbors rushed to their aid.

Mrs. Jessie Bowden jumped from a second floor window, made her way to a backyard fence and clutched a piling. Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Voss, operators of a next door apartment house, heard her screams.

BELIEVED ADMINISTRATION NOT TO SEEK ADDITIONAL TAXES IF SUPREME COURT KILLS AAA TAX

By D. HAROLD OLIVER, Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—(P)—Some members of congress believe the administration may not ask for new taxes next session even if the supreme court declares the AAA's processing levies invalid.

The administration indicated some time ago it would seek new taxes to finance farm benefits if AAA suffered this body blow. Treasury experts will be prepared, if President Roosevelt so orders, to suggest several plans for raising $500,000,000. This is the sum estimated to be needed to pay farmers' benefits pending production control contracts.

But several senators said today they would be willing to wager that a new tax bill would be avoided, at least until after the 1936 elections.

One of those holding this belief is Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader. Some Democratic senators, however, felt the same way as McNary, but would not be quoted by name.

Some believed the administration might turn, temporarily at least, to an export bounty or equalization fee plan to tide over the farm situation until after elections. The bounty, however, would require some federal funds.

Both these plans were before congress in Republican administration, advocated by western Republicans. Neither became law. Under the export bounty system, the treasury would issue debentures on farm surpluses exported. The debentures would aim to make up the difference between domestic and world prices. They would be negotiable and could be sold to importers for use in paying duties.

The equalization fee principle was contained in the McNary-Haugen bill which President Coolidge vetoed twice. A fee would have been assessed against farmers to raise funds for a program designed to maintain domestic crop prices at a level considered desirable.

Experts at the capitol said there were only two ways left to raise a half billion dollars through taxes and both are unpopular even in non-presidential election years.

PROMINENT REPUBLICAN LIBERAL COLLEAGUES OF BORAH MAY SPLIT ON HIS PRESIDENTIAL AMBITIONS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—(P)—With Senator Borah apparently considering the idea of running for president, politicians noted today that his republican independent colleagues in the senate probably would be divided on such a candidacy.

Three members of that little band in which Borah has been a leader for years—Senators Norris of Nebraska, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Johnson of California—have become so closely affiliated with President Roosevelt that a break would be unlikely, political leaders contend.

These three have taken so little part in republican affairs of late that they could probably give Borah small help even in a fight for the nomination. La Follette has left the party entirely and become a progressive.

President Roosevelt supported Johnson and La Follette in their last campaigns, after they had operated with him in 1932. Norris, who fought for Mr. Roosevelt in rooms and divided by a long corridor. The fire originated on the first floor.

C. S. Slater, who had a room diagonally across the hall from where the blaze started, said he heard a woman screaming and dashed into the blazing room and rescued a badly burned woman.

Fire Marshall Ligon went into the charred structure and said he believed the fire started when an occupant attempted to light a stove which had a faulty hose connection.

Ligon said two gas cocks on the stove were opened slightly and gas had probably leaked out during the night.

Blast in Women's Apartment.

The explosion occurred in the apartment of Mrs. Carrie Cashion, 63, and her sister, Miss Belle Stephens, 78. Mrs. Cashion has been an invalid since she was injured in an automobile accident two years ago.

Mrs. Cashion, trembling from shock, said she had smelled gas escaping during the night and had heard a hissing noise.

"Belle always tended the stove," she said. "I got up and went into the kitchen and Belle got up to light the fire in the bedroom. Then I heard an explosion and saw a flash. I managed to get out the back door, somehow."

She wandered across a vacant lot where she was found by her brother-in-law, Russell Erickson, of 201 St. Louis avenue.

Miss Stephens was blown into the hall by the explosion.

Slater saw the injured woman, her clothes ablaze. Slater beat out the flames and carried Miss Stephens out of doors to safety.

Miss Martin and her sister, Mrs. Turpin, were sleeping in a rear upstairs room where they were awakened by the blast.

"I just jumped out," said Miss Martin. "My sister jumped out of the window of another room."

The sisters were in a room near the narrow "blind" corridor where three of the bodies were found.

The front room just across the corridor from the room where the blast occurred, was occupied by Mrs. Bessie Boyd 40, and her two sons, W. L. Boyd, 15, and Billie, 10.

Mrs. Boyd was awake when the explosion took place.

"It sounded like the whole house had blown up," she said. "I heard things falling all over the place."

"I opened the door and saw the fire," she said. "I yelled to the boys to get out quick. Billie jerked his wet pants off the line and put them on. I got my coat and W. L. grabbed his pants and jacket. Then I took them in my arms and jumped out a window. We could see the fire whipping in here today."

HOSPITAL WARD IN NEW ORLEANS WAS SCENE OF FATAL SHOOTING

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 28.—(P)—Louis Sapp, towering PWA worker held for the hospital ward slaying of Harold E. Bourg, of colored letters today to support his contention that a domestic triangle caused the crime.

"I'm glad I did it," District Attorney Charles A. Byrne quoted 42-year-old Sapp, who is six feet, seven inches tall. "He broke up my home."

Byrne said some of the letters hinted at love entanglement. One of them, signed "Agnes," said: "After thinking it over, I realize our affair was a mistake and I love Louis best. I have confessed to him and the best you can do is to make an appointment with him."

Two terrified inmates of a ward in the Illinois Central hospital witnessed the shooting.

Bourg's wife, a bride of four months, heard the shots as she waited in an ante room.

J. D. Varrell, 18, of McComb, Miss., who occupied the bed adjoining Bourg's, told the district attorney that Sapp approached Bourg and, in answer to a greeting of "Hello Louis," started firing with the shout: "You broke up my home and stole my wife and child."

Bourg, 33, dropped the magazine he was reading when the visitor came, clutched at his chest, and fell to the floor, dead.

Sapp, District Attorney Byrne quoted Varrell as saying, then he fired the pistol and a small packet of letters on the bed, saying: "Here are your letters, in your own handwriting."

He later picked up the letters and, walking into the corridor, surrendered to James Flanagan, a Bureau special agent.

Bourg, an electrician, was recovering from an appendicitis operation. He is survived by his widow and two daughters by a former marriage.

With the dual rebellions by sedition troops in the federal district crushed and the last of the northern householders in flight, government authorities said the entire nation apparently was under control.

Twelve rebels were known dead, and five of the loyal army forces wounded. The government's artillery and aviation smashed the abortive revolts yesterday at the aviation school in the federal district and the third infantry barracks at Praia Vermelha, on the beach beneath Sugar Loaf mountain.

The government announced it held 300 participants in the local uprisings prisoners, and word came from the state of Rio Grande do Norte, scene of the earlier northern revolt, that Governor Raphael Fernandes resumed his post.

The governor notified President Getulio Vargas, "the rebels abandoned Natal after a great amount of sacking. Means have been taken to normalize completely Natal and its communications."

Planes and ships pressed a search for the S. S. Santos, on which the northeast rebels were reported to have fled Natal and authorities took precautions under the state of siege to maintain control.

Fascism and Socialism.

One authority, however, said: "Brazil's real political struggle is between Fascism and Socialism."

This politician, who asked that his name be withheld, said the abortive uprisings Sunday in Pernambuco and Rio Grande do Norte and yesterday in Rio de Janeiro were only the first effort by the communist group, led by Vin Yu-Keng, Chinese administrator of the demilitarized zone, in eastern Hopeh.

Three thousand Japanese troops assumed stations in Tientsin, and yesterday's Japanese military outposts in seizing railway centers have the heavy control of rail road arteries in Hopeh province.

Japanese aviation personnel took possession of the International race course here and its buildings. Authoritative sources at Peiping northwest and inland from Tientsin, expressed the opinion that the communist group's military power in North China was a prelude to imminent political changes in Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

Troop Trains Ready.

Three troop trains were reported held in readiness ostensibly to rush forces into southern Hopeh.

Chinese sources reported a squadron of Japanese fighting planes was expected to arrive momentarily at least outwardly the Japanese are rushing a North China air base to completion.

While the autonomy program threatened to cut loose Hopeh and Chahar provinces, Chinese reports said, provincial officials in neighboring Shantung province remained at least outwardly cool toward the self-rule movement.

Reports from Tsinan, capital of Shantung, said Governor Han Fu-Chu, despite conferences with visiting Japanese militarists, declined to accept an invitation to proceed to Peiping for negotiations.

The Japanese troop concentration in Tientsin and virtual seizure of that control point of the Tientsin-Pukow railway piercing Shantung province, was reported to have aroused apprehensions of Tsinan officials.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 28.—(P)—Ray Trail of Mount Pleasant high school, Schnectady, N. Babe who, to Orthodox Japanese, shares his parents' divinity, the imperial household announced the birth occurred at 7:57 a. m. within a half hour, virtually every building in Tokyo was beflagged while the news spread through the empire.

The ceremony of Emperor Hirohito presenting a sword to his newborn son was carried out today. The prince will be named Dec. 4, the seventh day after birth, in accordance with ancient rites.

United States charge d'affaires, Edwin L. Neville, went to the palace and conveyed America's felicitations with the usual formality of writing his name in the visitors' book.

Physicians announced the condition of the mother and the child, second in line of succession to the throne, was satisfactory. The baby weighed 2849 grams (about 6 1/4 pounds).

The new child follows Crown Prince Akihito, born Dec. 23, 1933, in the line of succession and is the sixth child born to their majesties. Four were girls.

Murder and Suicide Theory Discarded

HAMILTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—A. P. Spockley, justice of the peace, returned a verdict which said Charles Gann and Will Blackwell, found shot to death here Tuesday, were killed by persons unknown.

Spockley said that the fact that neither body was powder burned and that both were shot in the heart led him to discard a murder and suicide theory.

H. W. Allen, district attorney, held a court of inquiry yesterday, and seven witnesses were examined. The court was recessed pending fingerprint tests on a shotgun found near the bodies and a lamp was still burning when the bodies were discovered.

THESE DIONNE GIRLS RATHER SMART FOR AGE IF PUBLICITY AGENT TRUTHFUL; YOU JUDGE

CALLANDER, Ont., Nov. 28.—(P)—Yvonne Dionne—one of the sisters you've heard so much about—sat down to her breakfast this morning and found her cereal, fruit and milk all in new dishes.

Yvonne—with her sisters a year and a half old today—noticed the change and started the procedure the quintuplets apparently have agreed upon for initiation of new dishes. She grasped a spoon in her right hand and brought it down smartly on the edge of the cereal bowl.

Nothing happened so Yvonne lost what patience one can expect in an 18-month-old girl and dropped the dish on the nursery floor. Strangely, the dish didn't break.

Wide-eyed, Yvonne looked up at Dr. Allan Roy DaFoe and her nurses who laughed somewhat sheepishly at the first trick they have played on Yvonne and her sisters.

The dish—like all others in the quintuplet home now—is unbreakable, an innovation.

Dr. DaFoe decided it was necessary to prevent the income the youngsters get from movies, newspaper photographs and endorsements from being dissipated in the crash of crockery on the nursery floor.

"It was a mean trick, really," said Dr. DaFoe, "but it had to be done. I guess we've given them their first hint life isn't all beer and skittles."

Yvonne and her sisters took it all philosophically and Dr. DaFoe believes even so great a disappointment as realizing dishes are unbreakable cannot keep the youngsters from continuing to be the healthiest, happiest he has ever seen.

"They are the nearest thing to perfect youngsters anyone could hope to see," he asserted.

That is probably the broadest statement he has ever made about them. For months after they were born May 28, 1934, he had been cautious with his statements about their health.

WAR DEBT

After Texas won independence from Mexico, the treasury was empty and an appropriation to repair the shipping firm was not made.

Thomas F. McKinney later acquired his partner's interest in the claim. Then the civil war swept away his fortune.

Legislative records, Woodruff said, contained an agreement in 1873 by McKinney to accept a stipulated amount of interest in full payment of the claim. Again the legislature failed to appropriate funds.

The years passed and, for a long period, the claim was not pressed. After the turn of the twentieth century an Austin attorney initiated an investigation, with the result that an appropriation was finally made.

It was contained in a general claims bill which the governor vetoed, because, as usual, the state was "too poor."

BRITISH SCHOONER FOUND IN FLAMES IN ATLANTIC OCEAN

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(P)—The British two-master schooner R. L. Borden, was found in flames by the steamer Exilona today several hours after the Borden's master and five of the crew were rescued by the Italian freighter S. E. Petro about 610 miles east-southeast of New York.

The Exilona's wireless report, Mackay Radio announced, said she had reached the side of the stricken vessel after having seen the flames while four hours distant.

Neither the San Pedro nor the Exilona gave any word of the cause of the fire. That the master of the R. L. Borden abandoned the ship, and that the fire was seen by the Exilona apparently from a considerable distance, was taken to indicate the flames threatened destruction of the entire vessel.

clined to express much satisfaction with the decision. They noted that Justice Adkins had upheld the price-fixing provisions on which, the words of the justice, the government had relief "most strongly."

Concerning wages and hours, friends of the act pointed out that the entire industry is operating under contracts with the United Mine Workers of America, which fix both.

The decision was the second rendered on the act. Federal Judge Elwood Hamilton of Louisville, Ky., recently held it constitutional in its entirety.

Justice Adkins denied Carter's petition for two permanent injunctions restraining the government from collecting the act's 15 per cent "compliance tax" from the company and preventing the firm from accepting the producers' code prescribed by the statute.

For the purposes of the appeal, however, the justice granted a stay similar to one allowed by Judge Hamilton, preventing the government from collecting more than 1 1/2 per cent tax from the company. Under the law, producers who refuse to comply with the code are penalized an additional 13 1/2 per cent. The taxes are levied on the sale price of coal at the mine.

THANKSGIVING

Free Meals for Needy.

One of the largest restaurants in San Francisco closed its doors to the public and provided free meals for the needy.

Col. E. R. Bradley, sportsman, invited more than 2,000 children in Kentucky orphanages to be his guests.

Most of the nation's jails and institutions added that little something to the regular fare to call attention to the holiday and Governor Marland of Oklahoma commuted the sentences of 55 inmates of the state penitentiary.

Special church services were arranged in many of the nation's leading cities and historical towns.

Most of the nation's great and near great citizens planned more or less elaborate home dinners.

What harm has befallen L. A. Simpson, a farmer of Piedmont, Okla., and his son, Warren, 14, missing since Saturday? (Comer had their car when he was captured.)

Is there a story of crime in the fact that Comer's first wife, Lucille Stevens Comer and his second wife, Elizabeth Childers Comer, have not been seen by their relatives or heard from for months?

Could Comer have thrown any light on the disappearance last summer in Albuquerque, N. M., of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Lorus and Mr. and Mrs. Albert A. Hebertson of East St. Louis, Ill.?

Officers who have come back empty handed from perhaps the most thorough-going statewide search ever instituted in Oklahoma, paused today on the Thanksgiving holiday before turning again to their hunt.

"We have run down every faint clue," said Col. Charles W. Daley, head of the state crime bureau. "National guardsmen and peace officers have searched every likely place. The investigation will go on."

A SPECIAL PRIVILEGE for Readers of the

CORSICANA DAILY SUN

By an Exclusive Arrangement

You Can Own the World's Most Up-to-Date

6-Vol. ENCYCLOPEDIA

in an Illustrated DeLuxe Edition

This unusual opportunity, which we are glad to present to our readers, is made possible by the fact that we are one of a group of newspapers which has contracted with a National Syndicate to manufacture 1,000,000 volumes of the world's most up-to-date Encyclopedia.

Naturally, such vast-scale production means tremendous savings in manufacturing costs. Just as the automobile manufacturer, by producing cars in huge volume, can effect great economies which he passes on to the public in low prices--so the Publishing Syndicate, by producing this Encyclopedia in vast quantities, can also effect tremendous savings which we, in turn, are able to pass along to you.

MEETS A LONG-FELT NEED

WE HONESTLY believe this is one of the finest opportunities it has ever been our good fortune to offer to the readers of this newspaper. It is not only your opportunity to secure a high grade Encyclopedia at extremely low cost but our opportunity to render an unusual public service as well.

Every one wants and needs a good, up-to-date Encyclopedia. A reliable source of quick information on anything and everything under the sun. How often, when we want to broaden our knowledge on some special subject, or are stumped by some unexpected problem--we wrinkle our brows, stare vacantly out the window, and wonder: "Now, where can I find the answer to that?"

We know, of course, that, with a good Encyclopedia at hand, our need would be met in a jiffy. But the usual, many-volumed, highly expensive Encyclopedia is a luxury that only a comparatively few people can afford. There are literally thousands of families who have heretofore been deprived of a dependable, modern work of reading and reference, simply because the price has been prohibitive.

But now, thanks to the fortunate arrangement we have been able to make on behalf of our readers, the problem of price need no longer stand in any one's way. Now every family in this city, or any individual, who reads this paper, can own and enjoy the most practical, most up-to-date Encyclopedia in existence. A complete storehouse of universal knowledge compiled in a manner to meet TODAY'S requirements.

WHAT THIS GREAT LIBRARY OF WORLD-WIDE KNOWLEDGE WILL MEAN TO YOU

Think of having right in your own home, your office, your studio or workroom, an accurate, comprehensive library of world-wide knowledge, ready to answer your every question instantly! Knowledge you can actually apply to your every-day interests and problems. That will help you shape a broader, happier, more successful life.

Imagine the thrill of adventure, the delightful sense of discovery, to be had from merely browsing through these fine books in your leisure hours! Delving into all that man has learned and achieved and remembered, from the birth of the universe right down to the stirring events of 1935!

Of all the Encyclopedias ever published, we know of none more perfectly designed to meet the average, day-to-day needs of every one. Business and professional men and women, clerks and stenographers, salesmen and saleswomen, workers in the arts and crafts, housewives, club members, teachers, college students, industrial workers, artists, writers, public speakers, research workers--every one, in fact, who appreciates the importance of knowledge in mastering the art of gracious living, and of getting ahead.

EVERYTHING YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT EVERYTHING

Are you interested in music, art, science, literature? Do you want to understand the most recent New Deal activities? Have you the facts that enable you to interpret the events behind the news today in Ethiopia, Italy, Japan, England, France, Germany, Russia, and other international sectors of war, threatened war, and political unrest? Not as you find them in the ponderous out-of-date Encyclopedias, but information that is up-to-the-minute--that gives you the facts of the most recent developments in the news--facts of immediate, present-day interest.

Do you play bridge according to the latest rules? Does "Dieting for Health" interest you? Can you tell the difference between a genuine and a fake Oriental rug? Do you know the real name, age, and matrimonial status of your favorite movie or radio star? Are you able to follow a football game intelligently, play by play? What the immediate future of aviation is, based on the findings of the latest stratosphere flights? Interesting questions these--yet they are merely suggestive of the thousands of timely topics covered in this splendid Encyclopedia.

OF GREAT EDUCATIONAL AND CULTURAL VALUE, IT MAY REVEAL YOUR CHILD'S HIDDEN TALENTS

Every one recognizes the tremendous educational and cultural value of a good, up-to-date Encyclopedia in the home--and what a remarkable advantage it gives to boys and girls in school. As prominent educators have frequently pointed out--the child reared in a home which has a good Encyclopedia, invariably forges ahead much faster than children who do not have that advantage.

Nor is that all. Not only is the growing mind stimulated to search for worthwhile knowledge but often special interests are aroused, and unsuspected talents uncovered, that might never be brought to the surface in any other way.

HELPS YOU KEEP IN STEP WITH THE NEWS

But if this wonderful Encyclopedia served no other purpose, it would be invaluable aid to understanding the true factors, influences and trends behind the news of TODAY.

This is an era in which events move swiftly. There are vast changes, sweeping reforms taking place in our social, industrial and economic structure that vitally affect the welfare, success and happiness of every one of us. The whole world is seething with dramatic events of the first importance. So, while it is essential for all of us to keep abreast of the news every day--alert, forward-looking men and women want to inform themselves on the facts behind the news so that they can understand and discuss world events intelligently.

HOW BUSINESS MEN SAVE TIME AND MONEY

On many an occasion, the right information at the right time has not only saved time and money for business men--but has helped to increase profits. You may need special information on Accounting, Cost Finding, Advertising, Distribution, Banking, Sources of Raw Materials, Points of Commercial Law. You may want a better understanding of recent New Deal legislation, and to have the Government's activities and policies clarified. That is one of the outstanding features of the World-Wide Illustrated Encyclopedia--everything of importance is recorded, right down to 1935.

THE MACHINE AGE--AND THE AGE OF FATHER AND SON

Does your mind run to mechanical engineering, invention? Do you want to make things with your hands? Do you want to experiment with chemicals, electricity--or tinker with the engine of a car? Is your mind chime-minded? Was there ever a thing better than a love of tinkering, to cement the friendship between father and son? Whatever your interest, if you go in for any

BEAUTY EXERCISES

EXERCISE FOR BEAUTY
Try a few easy exercises every day such as Miss Forbes suggests to keep your figure slim and flexible. Read of three in today's Chats.

I wish there were some sort of machine in which a woman could sit comfortably while the machine exercised her. As a matter of fact, there is a thing, a special sort of chair, but this is very expensive. In this you lie back comfortably with wet cloths, steel plates and sand bags over various parts of your anatomy, and, according to the way the current is turned on, the muscles are exercised. The muscles are forced to contract and fight against the weight of the sand bags so that they get a great deal of exercise, yet the patient remains relaxed and resting.

I can, however, suggest a few simple exercises, just to keep your muscles limber and your body young and healthy. One is to lie on the floor on your back, arms along sides. Draw the knees up to the chest, straighten them out so legs are in the air, and keeping them straight, gradually lower them to the floor. Repeat this slowly and rhythmically ten or 12 times, you will not have a fat abdomen nor weak, sagging abdominal muscles.

For good digestion, and to strengthen spine as well as abdomen, try the following: Rest on your hands and knees. Let the body sag comfortably between them. Now draw in all the tummy muscles, and arch your spine as much as you can. Hold for a few seconds, or while you count ten. Relax and repeat, as you repeat all these exercises, a dozen times.

Now lie on the floor again on your spine, pull your knees up to your chest and fold your arms around them. Curl up your spine, making yourself into a compact, a bundle as possible. Now rock back and forth as rapidly as you can, and don't mind how many times you fall over. This is generally limbering and good for the circulation.

K. L.—The regular cream formula will do very well for a lanolin cream, as all that you need change is the one ingredient, making it lanolin instead of the oil. As lanolin is a very heavy oil, you would not need to use the cream for all purposes. It is best to keep it for a massage, if made from lanolin entirely, but if you do wish it for daily use, combine the oil and lanolin, half and half, or whatever proportion you like. The only thing to remember is to keep to the amount of oil given in the formula, whether it is all one kind or a mixture.

H. T. L.—The method used when your hair was waved may have been one of the old ones, which could be too drying for some hair. Give your scalp hot oil rubs the night before each shampoo, and it will improve the appearance of your hair from the first treatment. Massage your scalp every day to get up a healthy circulation, and new hair will be coming in to take the place of these dropping out now. If you can have your waves set with water, it would be better for your hair now than to have the sticky fluids used on it. These too are very drying.

U. D.—You might try rinsing the white switch in a blue water made from laundry blueing, or a blue water made from shavings from an indelible lead pencil. If the hairs are not pure white then, you will need to have it bleached by some one who does such work.

Rum Fleet Robs Coast Guards Of
Turkey Dinners

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—Rum runners cheated New England coast guards of their Thanksgiving leave.
A fleet of freighters, laden with alcohol, rolled off the ocean swell 75 to 100 miles offshore. Smaller craft, waiting a chance to land illicit cargoes, were huddled close to the larger ships.
Overhead, coast guard planes roared back and forth. Nearer shore, coast guard patrol boats kept watch. On land, custom men drove along beach roads.
Turkey and fixings ashore had been planned by the government's forces patrolling the coast. Then, the rum ships were reported off the coast with the largest contraband shipment since repeal. Leaves were cancelled at New England coast guard bases.

Joseph A. Maynard, collector of the port, said there were six or eight freighters in the rum fleet.
They were connected he said, with a "gigantic smuggling ring in New York."

Fish Declares
Borah Strongest
On List of GOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(P)— Rep. Fish of New York, himself mentioned as a possible G. O. P. presidential nominee, said today that Senator Borah of Idaho could get more votes in key northwestern states than any other republican.
He made the assertion after a conference with Borah. What they discussed was not disclosed, but another meeting was arranged for tomorrow.
Borah would not comment.
"I haven't anything to say now," he told questioners. "I think I will let Mr. Fish say anything there is to say."

NAVARRO YOUTH

theory that Toothman was the victim of a grudge and that the young man, staying with him, was killed to cover up the crime.

Efforts by relatives here early Thursday afternoon to definitely determine whether the youth found slain was Wilson Hamel about 15, had not been successful, although Mrs. Ola Mae Hill of Corsicana, sister of Wilson Hamel, was advised by a brother that a letter had been received from the youth from Colorado, Texas, a few days ago, and relatives knew the young man was in West Texas.

Mrs. Hill said her young brother had brown hair and was heavy set, while a description given her by a Colorado constable Thursday morning said the slain man was "blonde-haired," somewhat fitting the description of another brother, Brigs Hamel, about 25, whose whereabouts are unknown here. Neither of the young men have been here in several months.
Mrs. Hill, an employee of the local Southwestern Bell Telephone company, said she was reasonably sure the youth was her brother, Wilson Hamel.

Financial Sanctions Tightened.
GENEVA, Nov. 28.—(P)—The League of Nations' general staff tightened financial sanctions against Italy today by deciding that no commercial credit whatsoever should be accorded Italian exporters.
The staff ruled that all goods purchased in Italy should be paid for immediately.
It further ruled that even a delay of 15 days for payment of merchandise should be declined the granting of credit, and hence, should be forbidden.
Great Britain and France announced they were following this policy.
The experts found that the repelling concerning an arms embargo against Italy showed the governments concerned to be almost unanimously in favor of the move.

Bank Robbers Make Good Their Escape

BORATH, Ark., Nov. 28.—(P)—
Three bandits who robbed the Horatio Stearns bank of $700 yesterday, outdistanced a posse of officers from three states and apparently had escaped into Oklahoma today.
Ottawa County Sheriff Jess Pickens returned from the hunt with the announcement that the fugitives had eluded officers when they abandoned a light sedan and waded Little river west of here near the Oklahoma border.
Beaumont Merchant Dies.
GALVESTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—
Morris Hecht, 84, pioneer Beaumont merchant, died in a Galveston hospital early today.
Hecht was in business at Beaumont for 35 years. He retired 25 years ago. Surviving were his widow and seven children. Funeral services will be held at Beaumont tomorrow morning.

FRENCH PREMIER IS VICTOR IN CHAMBER
OVER STAND ON WAREMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE
LEAVES FOR NORTHERN
ARMY HEADQUARTERS

(By The Associated Press.)
Premier Pierre Laval, under fire from two sides because of his stand in the Italo-Ethiopian war, won a vote of confidence today from the chamber of deputies.

The vote was on economic principles, but it left Laval free to devote himself once again to the foreign situation.
The vote was taken under fire from two opposing French factions, one of which considers his attitude toward Italy as insufficiently friendly and contrary to France's best interests, while the other side considered him too friendly to Italy and in opposition to the ideals of the League of Nations, with which the French consider their security to be closely linked.

Diplomatic sources in Paris said that the French stand on Italy is "ready to oppose an oil embargo by every means" and has threatened to reinforce his troops in Libya if the British fleet in the Mediterranean is not reduced.

The impetus of fresh leadership was added to the Italo-Ethiopian war today as Emperor Haile Sellassie departed from Addis Ababa to join his army in the north.
The emperor's departure started inland to command his Italian columns.
The emperor left his capital by automobile, heading for Des-saye where his troops are concentrated.

Marshal Badoglio arrived Wednesday in Eritrea, where it was said that he intended to reconstruct the Italian mode of campaign.
Instead of the powerful slow-moving forces, serviced by trucks, which Gen. Emilio De Bono, the former commander, organized, Badoglio is expected to put smaller, faster columns into action.
These columns are to receive their supplies by camel and mule trains.
Italy, beginning to feel the pinch of sanctions, saw a nationwide response to the government's plea for gold. Great quantities of personal contributions for the purchase of gold for Italy's war chest were reported.

Associated Press Foreign Staff.
PARIS, Nov. 28.—(P)—The reopening of the French parliament precipitated today a fight by Premier Laval to give his government from overthrow and the franc from depreciation.
Heavy reinforcements of troops and mobile guards were brought in from the provinces as a precaution against disorders.
Officials announced that this was a "measure of measure" at the opening of parliament.
The premier intended to demand a quick vote of confidence from the chamber of deputies on his monetary policies and his defense of the gold standard for the franc.

His fall of his government would not only bring devaluation nearer to France but also would endanger the remainder of the gold bloc, financial experts asserted.

An overthrow of the cabinet by the deputies, forcing Laval out as premier and foreign minister, would bring almost certain change in France's position in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, observers said, possibly with a new premier leading a more vigorous policy against Italy.

The golden franc, which Laval's ministers pledged to maintain, was in danger of being turned over to the government, informed sources said.
Chamber left and left center groups have opposed bitterly Laval's deflation program, but none have wanted to accept responsibility for a financial panic.
Laval made it clear alteration of his decree laws would mean an unbalanced budget which bakers said might start another drain on gold, making it difficult to renew the short term bonds on which the treasury depends.
The issue was a flow of gold into the chamber, even before the chamber reconvened, was being used by Laval's supporters as a warning of imminent financial troubles if Laval was voted out.

HOUSTON STEAMSHIP INTERESTS REFUSE TO MEET COMMITTEEMEN

HOUSTON, Nov. 28.—(P)—The Houston maritime committee, composed of local steamship interests, declined today to meet with a three-man longshore mediation board, appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, at a conference called for 10 a. m. tomorrow.
Representatives of the maritime committee and of the International Longshoremen's Association were asked to meet with the mediators in an effort to end the seven weeks old waterfront strike here.
"We are willing to come before the board when they make an embargo against the longshoremen, with which we have signed concessions, are allowed representation," J.
R. Dunn, of the maritime committee said.

Charleston, S. C., where it stopped last night for minor repairs.
It left Bridgeport, Conn., yesterday.

car of a northbound Katy freight varado, Chief Dispatcher J. A.

Singler of Denison reported. No one was hurt.

NO WORD RECEIVED FROM ELLSWORTH IN PAST FIVE DAYS

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(P)— Wireless operators near the antarctic circle listened today for word from Lincoln Ellsworth, who last reported his whereabouts five days ago in flight with his pilot, Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, from their base ship at Dundee Island to Admiral Richard E.
Byrd's former base at Little America.

For more than 16 hours yesterday hopes were held that the New Zealand cruiser Dunedin had heard a wireless signal from the explorer. The New York Times and North American Newspaper Alliance said, however, that the signal had been received from the base ship, the Wyatt Earp, and not from Ellsworth himself.
The Times said the Wyatt Earp moved on last night toward an antarctic ice field, in accordance with a pre-arranged plan to establish a base in the event that Ellsworth disappeared for an alarming period of time.

TRIAL DRAKE ESTATE
CASE ADJOURNED TO
MONDAY BY JUDGEWILL CONSIDER DEFENSE
COMPLAINT THAT WITNESS
CONTRADICTED TESTIMONY

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(P)—Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, presiding at the trial of 41 Drake estate defendants, announced he would consider Monday a defense complaint that a government witness contradicted his testimony
after leaving the stand.

The court adjourned the trial until Monday to permit a number of defendants to go home for Thanksgiving.
The witness was C. H. Achenbach, a Boone, Iowa, chiropractor, who testified yesterday that he invested $300 of his fellow town-men in the chimerical plan to find the heir to the Sit Francis Drake billions.

Achenbach quoted one of the defendants, J. Verne Carlson, also a Boone resident, as claiming he would get a $100 return on each dollar contributed. He denied on cross-examination by Defense Attorney J. E. Perkins that he kept books or collected funds for Carlson.
Crane told Judge Sullivan that Achenbach contradicted himself when asked to state yesterday that he had seen Carlson.

George W. Bang, a Lincoln, Neb., grocer and another government witness, told how one of the partisans of the Drake estate scheme was arrested by the police.
Bang testified he heard of the plan from Albert L. Chadd, who represented himself as an investor and was convinced that all who invested would become financially independent.

"Where is Chadd now?" the prosecutor asked.
Bang said he did not know where Chadd was, but he said he had seen him at the county poor farm at Early, Iowa, the witness answered.
Jens Jensen, retired farmer of Canton, S. D., testified he sent money to Chadd, and was expected to receive $10,000. He said he had seen Chadd at a Chicago meeting with Oscar Hartzoff, chief defendant. Jensen said Hartzoff told him he was going to England, where Hartzoff was supposed to know the real heir to the Drake treasures.

ELECTRIC CHAIR OR

SUPREME COURT OF TEXAS UPHOLDS RULE ON SPACING OF WELLS

ALSO REFUSES REHEARING ON UNCONSTITUTIONALITY TAX DISCOUNT LAW

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—(P)—The supreme court refused a motion for rehearing today in the case of C. H. Brown versus the Humble Oil & Refining Company, sustaining a previous opinion upholding Rule 37 of the railroad commission. The court denied a rehearing on its decision rendering unconstitutional an act proposing disallowance for prompt payment of ad valorem taxes.

Applications of the Magnolia Petroleum Company and Rowan Drilling Company for mandamus orders requiring Controller George H. Shepard to accept discounted payments previously were refused.

Rule 37 regulates the spacing of oil wells.

The court said it never had held that acreage must be the sole or determining factor in applying the rule or granting exceptions thereto.

It stated the commission was authorized by law to make rules and regulations affecting oil and gas wells and the only restrictions were that such rules be "reasonable and not arbitrary."

It said that the original opinion had been construed in some quarters to mean that acreage "must be the sole or controlling factor in determining how many oil and gas wells may be drilled, or how much oil and gas may be taken from a tract" and that the allowable "must be adjusted so that a tract can produce only the oil measured by the proportion which its acreage bears to the acreage of tracts developed under general provisions of Rule 37."

It declared such constructions were erroneous.

The court said the rule and exceptions could be so administered as to prevent invasion of property rights and protect each owner in the opportunity to save and produce oil and gas which he has a right to take.

Authorized to Make Rules.

The commission is authorized to make rules relating to the production of oil and gas, the opinion by Justice John H. Sharp said. "This commission will not undertake to prescribe any rule or standard to guide the commission, except that its actions must be legal, reasonable and not arbitrary."

"There are many factors, facts and circumstances . . . which must be considered, weighed and given effect, in fair and reasonable administration of such laws, rules and exceptions. All questions of fact are primarily for the commission to decide."

"We held in the original opinion and reiterate here, that the legislature enacted certain laws which declare the public policy of the state with respect to the development and conservation of oil and gas, and placed the duty upon the commission to carry out the details. The duty was lodged with the railroad commission to make rules to carry out mandates of the legislature and to impartially enforce them."

Must Be Just.

"In the exercise of its power to grant exceptions to its rules, it is the duty of the commission to treat all interested parties justly, fairly and impartially under all the facts and circumstances of a case; and the actions and rulings of the commission in attempting to accomplish such results will not be disturbed by the courts, unless they are clearly illegal, unreasonable or arbitrary."

"All rules and rulings of the railroad commission are presumed to be valid until the contrary is made to appear. If a rule of the commission is found to be illegal or invalid by a court of competent jurisdiction, such court may so adjudge. The court cannot substitute a new rule for one adjudged invalid. That power rests exclusively with the railroad commission."

Interest In Big Christmas Parade Increasing Daily

A continual growth of interest both on the part of the residents of Central Texas and local merchants in the Santa Claus parade to be presented in Corsicana on Saturday, December 7, was reported Wednesday morning by members of the committee of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce in charge of the event.

Almost every day some merchant sends in his contribution to the financial support of the enterprise, according to F. C. Paul, finance chairman, and several more are expected to contribute substantial amounts by the end of this week. "Every effort has been made to let the merchant determine for himself what his part should be, and only as a last resort will he be asked for a specified amount," the chairman said.

Letters of invitation have been extended to communities for floats or marching units in the parade that will swing under way at 11 o'clock on December 7. Santa Claus and his live reindeer will naturally be featured in the procession and many other attractions will be offered.

Bride-to-Be Honoree Of Pretty Shower On Tuesday Evening

Miss Della Mae Bunch, a bride-to-be, was the honoree of a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening jointly given by Mrs. W. C. Scarborough and Mrs. Henry Bunch at the apartment of Mrs. Scarborough, 505 West Third avenue.

The rooms given over to the lovely party were brightly decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums in keeping with the chosen color theme of yellow and white.

When the 25 or more guests had assembled, two contests were enjoyed. In the first, "Cupid's Heart," Mrs. Terry McGary won the prize, and in second a "Floral Wedding," Mrs. John Bunch captured the prize. Both presented their favors to the honoree.

The hostesses then passed papers and pencils asking each to write their favorite recipe. These were gathered and put in an attractive cover, and presented Miss Bunch.

The shower gifts were brought in by the hostesses in a large basket, decorated in yellow and white, and after each package had been opened and the lovely gifts passed around for all to admire, they were placed on the dining table which was laid in lace over yellow, and centered with two cornucopia vases filled with yellow and white chrysanthemums and yellow candles in crystal holders.

Refreshments of apricot whipp and white cake were served.

HIGH COURTS PASS ON TEXAS LIQUOR LAWS SITUATION

DEAN LAW REPEALED BUT PART OF DRY COUNTY CANNOT REMAIN WET

AUSTIN, Nov. 27.—(P)—The Court of Criminal Appeals today freed 26 persons convicted of violating the old prohibition law while the Supreme Court held a wet precinct was not permitted in a county which had voted dry by local option.

The criminal appeals court ruled the new act, providing misdemeanor penalties for violating a package sale law with local option, repealed the former prohibition act, known as the Dean law.

Repeal of the old felony act, it held, invalidated convictions pending before it on appeal and also pending indictments. The supreme court determined a policy in decisions on two cases involving construction of the local option clause in the 1933 constitutional amendment legalizing sale of 3.2 beer.

Judge S. H. German of the commission of appeals, who wrote both opinions, held: "Local option within a county as a whole can not be repealed piecemeal."

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 27.—(P)—The court of criminal appeals ruled today the liquor control act repealing the Dean law, invalidating prohibition convictions pending on appeal and pending indictments.

The court's ruling in a controlling case, that of Guy Meadows from Brown county, affecting 70 other convictions for violating prohibition laws pending in that court and on undetermined number of indictments.

Governor Allred previously indicated he would pardon first offenders serving terms for Dean law violations provided they had not been convicted, in addition of other offenses.

The criminal appeals court ruled it had no option since the liquor control act expressly repealed the Dean law and all amendments and made no provision for further prosecution of cases not finally disposed of either on appeal or pending in trial courts.

Exempt From Punishment.

"If the repealing statute substitutes no other penalty, this exempts from punishment all persons who may have violated such repealed law," the court stated.

In one case the supreme court upheld a city of Childress election which favored sale of 3.2 beer after two county-wide votes had opposed it.

The court upheld refusal of County Judge L. L. King to grant J. T. Walling a license and adjourned the case for further questions from the Amarillo court of civil appeals that the election was void; that the county judge was correct, and that the trial court did not err in refusing Walling's application for a mandamus requiring the county judge to grant a license.

Walker County Case.

The second case arose from Justice precinct number four in Walker county voting for 3.2 beer sales in the face of a county-wide election disapproving sales.

Basketball Team Managers to Meet On Monday Night

All basketball team managers who expect to enter their cohorts in the Y. M. C. A. league are asked to meet Y. officials at 6:30 Monday night, Dec. 2, at the Association building. It was announced today by C. F. Broughton, physical director. The scheduled will be drawn up and eligibility discussed and accepted. Present plans call for the opening of the league on Dec. 10.

Coker to grant Frank Knecht a license was upheld by the trial court. The Galveston court of civil appeals reversed and rendered for Knecht. The supreme court held the county judge was correct.

The court found that the local option provision of the beer amendment was almost identical with that in section 20, article 16, of the constitution of 1876. It over-ruled a contention that a precinct was guaranteed a similar privilege to be wet or dry as given a county.

Citing previous decisions upholding the principle, the court held a smaller unit could not control a larger one, thus "nullifying the constitution as to all larger sub-divisions."
